16. (1) A proposal to introduce or amend a legal metrology technical regulation must be submitted to the Chief Executive Officer in writing and be motivated by the person proposing that declaration or amendment. 5

(2) The National Regulator must, if the proposal referred to in subsection (1) is feasible—

(a) request SABS to draft a SANS that may be applied in respect of the proposal contemplated in subsection (1); and 10

(b) agree on a time limit with SABS, by which time such SANS must be duly published by SABS.

(3) (a) If a proposal referred to in subsection (1) is feasible and a SANS is published by SABS in terms of subsection (2)(b) or it is not possible to include the contemplated requirements in a SANS, the National Regulator must proceed with the prescribed consultation process. 15

(b) In the case of a new legal metrology technical regulation the consultation process must include a regulatory risk and impact assessment.

Effect of declaration as legal metrology technical regulation 20

17. (1) No person may import, manufacture, sell or supply a measuring instrument or product, or render a service, to which a legal metrology technical regulation applies, except in accordance with that legal metrology technical regulation.

(2) No person may import, sell or supply a measuring instrument or product, or render a service, to which a legal metrology technical regulation applies, unless— 25

(a) the measuring instrument, product or service complies with, or has been manufactured in accordance with, the legal metrology technical regulation; or

(b) if applicable, the distinctive mark referred to in section 37(1) has been applied to the measuring instrument, product or service in the prescribed manner and the measuring instrument, product or service has been marked in accordance with any requirements in terms of section 37(2). 30

(3) Any person who imports, sells or supplies a measuring instrument, product or service to which a legal metrology technical regulation applies, must—

(a) keep and make available to a surveillance inspector such records as may be prescribed; and 35

(b) pay such fees to the National Regulator as may be prescribed.

Measuring instrument, product or service not conforming to legal metrology technical regulation

18. CHAPTER V

TYPE APPROVAL AND VERIFICATION OF MEASURING INSTRUMENTS

Type approval of measuring instruments 10

22. (1) Every type of measuring instrument used for a prescribed purpose is subject to type approval, unless excluded by regulation.

(2) (a) A type of measuring instrument contemplated in subsection (1) that is not excluded must be submitted for type approval in accordance with the prescribed requirements. 15

(b) If the type of measuring instrument contemplated in paragraph (a) complies with the prescribed requirements or requirements set in subsection (c), the Chief Executive Officer must issue a type approval certificate.

(c) The Chief Executive Officer may, in consultation with the submitter, set requirements and conditions pertaining to the use thereof, for measuring instruments where these are not prescribed, until such time as a legal metrology technical regulation is published in terms of section 15. 20

(d) The National Regulator may, subject to such conditions, limitations or requirements and for a specified period, permit in writing the use, or supply for use, for a prescribed purpose of a specimen of a model of a measuring instrument referred to in subsection (2)(a) and for a specified number of such specimens, before the Chief Executive Officer has approved thereof in terms of subsection (2)(b). 25

(e) The measuring instrument contemplated in paragraph (d) is, during the period of the written permission, excluded from the provisions of section 24.

(3) The Chief Executive Officer may withdraw or amend any certificate issued in terms of subsection (2)(b) if the measuring instrument no longer complies with the requirements. 30

(4) The period of validity of a certificate issued in terms of subsection (2)(b) is as prescribed.

Type approval offences 35

Verification of measuring instruments

24. (1) All measuring instruments, including those used by the State for a prescribed purpose, are subject to initial verification and subsequent verification in accordance with the relevant legal metrology technical regulations, unless the measuring instrument is exempted by regulation from initial verification or subsequent verification. 5

(2) Measuring instruments must be submitted for verification at the prescribed time and in the prescribed manner.

Powers of verification officers

25. (1) For the purposes of this Act, a verification officer may verify any measuring instrument for which he or she is appointed in terms of this Act. 10

(2) The Minister may prescribe requirements to restrict verification officers from repairing prescribed measuring instruments.

(3) (a) If a verification officer in the exercise of his or her powers contemplated in subsection (1) finds that the measuring instrument in question does not comply with the requirements of this Act, the verification officer must reject such measuring instrument 15 by defacing the verification mark in the prescribed manner.

(b) A measuring instrument of which the verification mark has been defaced in terms of paragraph (a) must be regarded as unverified.

(c) A verification officer who defaces any verification mark on any measuring instrument in terms of paragraph (a) must, immediately after he or she has defaced the verification mark, issue to the person in charge of the measuring instrument in question a certificate stating the reason for the defacement and a copy of that certificate must be submitted to the National Regulator. 20

(4) If a verification officer in the exercise of his or her powers contemplated in subsection (1) finds that the measuring instrument in question complies with the requirements of this Act, he or she must— 25

(a) if a verification mark is prescribed, apply such verification mark in the prescribed manner to the measuring instrument; and

(b) at the same time issue a verification certificate to the person in charge of the measuring instrument. 30

Offences in connection with verification of instruments

26. (1) A verification officer is guilty of an offence if he or she—

(a) consents to the continued use of a measuring instrument that was rejected in terms of section 25(3)(a);

(b) issues a document to the effect that a measuring instrument has been verified 35 under this Act if that measuring instrument has not been verified;

(c) uses a verification mark for any purpose other than the intended purpose;

(d) fails to reject a measuring instrument which is found not to comply with the requirements of this Act;

(e) repairs and verifies a measuring instrument which he or she is not permitted to repair and verify in terms of section 25(2) or repairs an instrument for which he or she is not registered to repair in terms of section 10. 40

(f) unless a measuring instrument has been submitted or made available to him or her by the owner or user thereof for verification—

(i) falsely creates the impression with any owner or user that a measuring instrument is subject to verification by the verification officer; or 45

(ii) compels any owner or user to have a measuring instrument verified by the verification officer.

(2) A person is guilty of an offence if he or she—

(a) forges or counterfeits any stamp or die used for the verification of any measuring instrument; 50

(b) wilfully falsifies or tampers with a measuring instrument used for any prescribed purpose;

CHAPTER VI

REPAIR OF MEASURING INSTRUMENTS

Functions of persons responsible for repairs 15

27. (1) A person responsible for repairs of any instrument used for a prescribed purpose must be—
- (a) employed by a designated repair body; and
 - (b) registered in terms of section 10.
- (2) The Minister may prescribe requirements to restrict a person responsible for repairs from verifying a measuring instrument after he or she has repaired it. 20
- (3) Subject to any prescribed instructions relating to the defacing, obliteration or breaking of any verification mark, a person responsible for repairs—
- (a) may not repair any measuring instrument used for any prescribed purpose unless he or she has first permanently obliterated any verification mark, including a mark defaced in terms of section 25(3)(a), on that measuring instrument; and 25
 - (b) who has repaired any measuring instrument used for any prescribed purpose must, before further use of that measuring instrument, furnish a guarantee signed by him or her to the user or the owner of that measuring instrument that the measuring instrument is correct and verifiable under this Act, unless that measuring instrument is verified immediately after the repair. 30
- (4) A guarantee issued in terms of subsection (3)(b) is valid for a prescribed period.
- (5) A copy of the guarantee contemplated in subsection (3)(b) must be forwarded to the National Regulator in the prescribed manner. 35
- (6) (a) No person may use for any prescribed purpose any measuring instrument that has been repaired, unless that measuring instrument has been verified or a guarantee in writing has in terms of subsection (3)(b) been issued in respect of that measuring instrument.
- (b) If a person relies on a guarantee contemplated in paragraph (a), that person must ensure that the measuring instrument is verified before the expiry of the guarantee. 40
- (7) Work carried out on, or an adjustment made to, a measuring instrument that does not constitute a repair, does not invalidate any current verification in respect of that measuring instrument as long as the person who worked on or adjusted the measuring instrument applies protective seals where these have been broken and issues a prescribed certificate stating— 45
- (a) the nature of the work done or the adjustment made;
 - (b) the serial number and date of issue of the current valid verification certificate pertaining to that instrument; and

Offences in respect of repair of measuring instruments

- 28. (1) A person is guilty of an offence if that person—
- (a) repairs a measuring instrument used for a prescribed purpose whilst not registered in terms of section 10;
 - (b) after repair verifies the measuring instrument which he or she may not verify in terms of section 27(2); 5
 - (c) contravenes or fails to comply with section 27(3)(a) or (b);
 - (d) uses a measuring instrument for any prescribed purpose that has been repaired without having it immediately thereafter verified, unless that measuring instrument is covered by a guarantee contemplated in section 27(3)(b); or 10
 - (e) uses a measuring instrument for a prescribed purpose after the guarantee contemplated in section 27(3)(b) has expired, unless that measuring instrument has been verified before the expiry of that guarantee.
- (2) A repair body is guilty of an offence if that repair body repairs a measuring instrument used for a prescribed purpose whilst it is not designated in terms of section 9 as a repair body. 15

CHAPTER VIIMANNER OF USE, POSSESSION OF OR SALE OF MEASURING INSTRUMENTS AND PRODUCTS*Restriction on and prohibition of manufacture, import, use or possession of certain measuring instruments 20

29. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Act or any other law, the Minister may, by notice in the Gazette, restrict or prohibit the manufacture, import, use or possession of any measuring instrument or container to such extent and under such conditions as may be necessary in order to achieve the object of effecting the application of measurement units of the International System of Units and any other prescribed measurement unit in the Republic. 25

Sale, supply and use of unverified measuring instruments

- 30. (1) (a) No person may sell, or supply for use, any unverified measuring instrument for any prescribed purpose if such measuring instrument must be verified in terms of the Act, unless he or she has obtained prior permission in writing for such sale or supply from the Chief Executive Officer. 30
- (b) The Chief Executive Officer may issue such permission only if—
- (i) he or she is satisfied that the seller or supplier cannot, without undue delay or inconvenience, cause such instrument to be verified before its sale or supply; and 35
 - (ii) the seller or supplier furnishes the Chief Executive Officer with a guarantee in a prescribed format and under such conditions as may be prescribed to the effect that the instrument is correct and verifiable under this Act.
- (c) The Chief Executive Officer must specify in the permission a date on which the permission expires. 40
- (2) No person may use an unverified measuring instrument unless he or she has obtained the permission of the Chief Executive Officer.
- (3) Notwithstanding subsection (2), a person who has acquired an unverified measuring instrument from a person contemplated in subsection (1)(a) and covered by permission contemplated in subsection (1)(b), may use such measuring instrument but he or she must cause the measuring instrument to be verified before the date on which the permission expires. 45

Offences in respect of manufacture or selling of false, defective or inaccurate measuring instruments

31. (1) A person who manufactures, sells or causes to be sold any false, defective or inaccurate measuring instrument, is guilty of an offence.

(2) A person who manufactures, sells, or causes to be sold, any measuring instrument for any prescribed purpose that does not comply with the requirements of a notice issued under section 29 or with the requirements of any applicable legal metrology technical regulation, is guilty of an offence. 5

(3) A person is guilty of an offence if that person—

(a) furnishes a guarantee in terms of section 30(1)(b)(ii) in respect of any measuring instrument which is not correct and verifiable under this Act; 10

(b) contravenes or fails to comply with section 30(2); or

(c) uses a measuring instrument contemplated in section 30(3) after the date on which the permission expires without having caused the measuring instrument to be verified. 15

Measuring instruments to be wholly exposed

32. (1) Any person who, in the presence of the purchaser of any product and in connection with the measuring of the quantity of such product, uses any measuring instrument, must keep such measuring instrument wholly exposed to the view of such purchaser. 20

(2) Any person who uses any measuring instrument in the presence of a person in respect of whom the first mentioned person provides a service must keep such measuring instrument wholly exposed to the view of the person in respect of whom the first mentioned person provides a service.

(3) Any person who uses any measuring instrument other than in the presence of a person in respect of whom the first mentioned person provides a service, must grant free access to such measuring instrument and its indications to any person affected by or to whom the measurement applies. 25

(4) Any person who, in the retail trade, sells any product prepacked by him or her must, at the request of the purchaser of such product who wishes to measure the quantity of the product purchased, make available to that purchaser a verified measuring instrument suitable for measuring the quantity of the product in question. 30

Prohibition of false statement as to quantity

33. (1) Subject to subsection (2), any person who directly or indirectly makes any false, incorrect or untrue declaration or statement or wilfully misleads any person as to the quantity or a measurement value, expressed by number or in terms of any measurement unit, of any item in connection with its purchase, sale, counting or measurement or in the computation of any charges for services rendered or for any other measurement of a legal nature on the basis of number or measurement, is guilty of an offence. 35 40

(2) If the difference between the actual and any represented quantity, expressed by number or in terms of any measurement unit, in respect of which any declaration or statement contemplated in subsection (1) is made and such difference is permissible in terms of this Act, that declaration or statement must not be regarded as false, incorrect or untrue merely because of the existence of that difference. 45

Measurement for prescribed purpose to be effected in terms of certain measurement units and by means of verified measuring instruments

34. (1) Any contract, bargain, sale, purchase or transaction made or effected in the Republic in respect of any land situated therein or in respect of any interest in land so situated or in respect of any product, service rendered or measurement for any other prescribed purpose, the quantity of which is expressed in terms of any measurement unit, must be made or effected in accordance with a prescribed measurement unit for such purpose. 50
